OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE
INTELLIGENCE SUPPORT FOR THE PRESIDENT

1. Beginning on 12 May, the Agency will provide daily current intelligence support to the President and the US delegation at the Summit Conference in Paris, and such other intelligence support as may be required by the President while he is abroad. A daily intelligence briefing will be prepared on the basis of contributions submitted by OCI divisions, ONE, ORR, OSI, [REDACTED] and other Agency components as appropriate. Spot or emergency briefings will be prepared and dispatched as the situation warrants.

2. In Paris, the briefings will be passed to the President, Secretary Herter, General Goodpaster and other appropriate members of the US delegation [REDACTED]

25X1A

25X1A

[REDACTED] In Washington, information copies of the briefings will be sent to Ambassador Cumming at the Department of State and to the DCI, DDCI, DDI, DDP, AD/NE, AD/RR and the AD/SI.

3. Contributions to the briefings will be integrated and coordinated by the OCI Cable SIDO and reviewed by a panel composed of the AD/CI and representatives of the DDP and the AD/NE. To the extent possible, the OCI Cable SIDO will consult with appropriate State Department representatives prior to dispatch of the intelligence briefing material. (See Annex)

4. During non-office hours (normally 1700-0830), if critical developments justify spot or emergency briefings, the OCI Night SIDO will coordinate preparation, review and dispatch.

5. Spot briefings which necessarily include assessments which are only preliminary or uncoordinated will be so described and will be followed as soon as possible by a finished or coordinated assessment.

6. The first briefing will be prepared 12 May for delivery in Paris at the latest by 0600Z (0700 local, 0200 EDT) 13 May. The briefings will be prepared daily until the conclusion of the Conference or until the President returns to the US, whichever is later, according to the following schedule (times EDT):

7. The briefings are to emphasize:

- a) developments related to the Conference itself or to the subjects under discussion;
- b) information concerning foreign participants at the Conference, their intentions and attitudes;
- c) major developments affecting: the Bloc, particularly the USSR; [REDACTED]
- d) critical developments elsewhere;
- e) significant developments in other areas which the President may visit (e.g., Portugal).

25X1A 8. Contributions may be of any classification and may include special intelligence. In those instances where description or evaluation of the source may be essential to full appreciation of the information, a brief description and evaluation (but not necessarily precise identification) of the source or sources should accompany the contributions. This source information will not be included in the daily intelligence briefing but will be forwarded with it as essential background [REDACTED]

9. Contributions are not to be prepared in "cablese," but should be as succinct as possible. When possible, a copy of the original source material which prompts any given contribution should be forwarded with it to the Cable SIDO.

STATSPEC

25X1A In addition, Secretary Herter will be receiving cables from embassies world-wide. This, however, should not be considered as barring the use of such information in the daily intelligence briefing, which is to be a single integrated presentation and assessment of the significant or pertinent developments of the day tailored for the President and the US delegation during the Conference. When a contribution is based, partially or wholly, on "raw" information or finished intelligence [REDACTED] notation to this effect

25X1A [REDACTED] should be made on the source description forwarded to the Cable SIDO.

OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE
CONSULTATION WITH STATE DEPARTMENT

1. To the extent possible, the Cable SIDO will consult with appropriate representatives of the Department of State before dispatch of the daily briefing.

2. The exigencies of deadlines governing transmittal of the regular briefing and the necessity for quick response to new situations inherent in spot items will preclude detailed coordination. The object of the consultation will be to ensure, when possible, that assessments received by the US delegation in Paris from CIA and from INR (which will also be preparing occasional current briefing material) do not contain major contradictions--at least without explanation.

3. When no coordination has been effected on a given item, this will be indicated on the outgoing text.

4. The consultation with State representatives will be accomplished along the following lines:

- a) When an item of information is being seriously considered for inclusion in either a daily or spot briefing, the Cable or the Night SIDO will alert State by telephone and will indicate, when possible, the general approach of the assessment.
- b) State representatives at the CIB panel meeting (both RCI and INR) will, after the CIB meeting, visit the Cable SIDO to discuss the briefing. If any draft texts are ready at that time, a copy will be made available to them.
- c) The State representatives will, at this time, provide the Cable SIDO with a copy of any outgoing INR briefings which may be available.
- d) When the final text of the CIA briefing is cleared for dispatch, a copy will be sent to State by teletype.
